HIGHLIGHTS

- * The foreign born population reached an all time high of 19.8 million persons in 1990.
- * The proportion of foreign born (7.9 percent) is the second highest in this century. In 1910, the proportion of the population that was foreign born was 8.0 percent.
- * California was home to one-third of the foreign born population.
- * Other states with large numbers of foreign born, in order were, New York, Florida, Texas, New Jersey, and Illinois.
- * One of every three Los Angeles county residents was foreign born -- and of the foreign born living in Los Angeles, three of every four were NOT citizens.
- * Rounding out the top ten list of counties with large foreign born populations is: Dade county, Florida; Cook county, Illinois; Queens county, New York; Kings county, New York; Orange county, California; San Diego county, California; Harris county, Texas; New York county, New York; and Santa Clara county, California.
- * Of the 69 counties with 50 thousand or more foreign born, 19 counties were in California.
- * More than 45 percent of Dade county's population was foreign born. Other counties with large proportions of foreign born were Queens county, New York; San Francisco county, California; and Hudson county, New York.
- * Hialeah city, Florida was 70.4 percent foreign born. Other cities with more than half their population foreign born were Miami, Huntington, Union City, Monterey Park, Miami Beach, and Santa Ana.
- * The foreign born population in the United States increased from 5.4 percent in 1960 to 7.9 percent in 1990, an increase of 10 million persons in 30 years.
- * California's foreign born population grew from 13.8 percent in 1960 to 32.7 percent in 1990, while New York's foreign born population decreased from 23.5 percent in 1960 to 14.4 percent in 1990.
- * The number of foreign born entering the United States increased every five year period since 1960, from 1.5 million between 1960-64 to 5.7 million between 1985-90. Nearly one-fourth of the foreign born population entered the United States between 1985 and 1990.
- * 36 percent of Washington, D.C.'s foreign born population entered the country between 1985-90.
- * 60 percent of the foreign born were not citizens in 1990.
- * More than three of every four foreign born Mexicans were not citizens in 1990.
- * Of the countries contributing more than 100,000 foreign born persons, Nicaragua, El Salvador, and Guatemala had the highest proportions of non-citizens (more than 83 percent).

- * Mexico, Phillipines, Canada, Cuba, Germany, United Kingdom, Italy, Korea, Vietnam, and China were the largest sources of the foreign born population in 1990. ✓
- * Mexicans, Phillipines, Canadians, Koreans, Vietnamese, and Chinese were concentrated in the West; Cubans in the South; and Germans and Italians in the Northeast. ✓
- * California and New York had the largest number of foreign born from nearly every country, however Nicaraguans were concentrated in Florida and Portuguese were concentrated in Massachusetts.
- * The number of Mexican foreign born increased from 2.2 million in 1980 to 4.3 million in 1990.
- * Germany fell from second in rank in 1980 to fifth in rank in 1990, declining from .9 million in 1980 to .7 million in 1990. The Philippines jumped from seventh in rank in 1980 (.5 million) to second (.9 million) in 1990.
- * Of the top 25 foreign born groups, five countries appeared on the list for the first time: El Salvador, Taiwan, Guatemala, Haiti, and Laos.

DEFINITIONS OF SUBJECT CHARACTERISTICS

CITIZENSHIP

The data on citizenship were derived from answers to questionnaire item 9, which was asked of a sample of persons.

Citizen -- Persons who indicated that they were native born and foreign born persons who indicated that they have become naturalized. (For more information on native and foreign born, see the discussion under "Place of Birth.")

There are four categories of citizenship: (1) born in the United States, (2) born in Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands of the United States, or the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, (3) born abroad of American parents, and (4) citizen by naturalization.

Naturalized Citizen -- Foreign born persons who had completed the naturalization process at the time of the census and upon whom the rights of citizenship had been conferred.

Not a Citizen -- Foreign born persons who were not citizens, including persons who had begun but not completed the naturalization process at the time of the census.

Limitation of the Data -- Evaluation studies completed after previous censuses indicated that some persons may have reported themselves as citizens although they had not yet attained the status.

Comparability -- Similar questions on citizenship were asked in the censuses of 1820, 1830, 1870, 1890 through 1950, 1970, and 1980. The 1980 question was asked of a sample of a sample of the foreign born population. In 1990, both native and foreign born persons who received the long-form questionnaire were asked to respond to the citizenship question.

PLACE OF BIRTH

The data on place of birth were derived from answers to questionnaire item 8, which was asked on a sample basis. The place of birth question asked respondents to report the U.S. State, commonwealth or territory, or the foreign country where they were born. Persons born outside the United States were asked to report their place of birth according to current international boundaries. Since numerous changes in boundaries of foreign countries have occurred in the last century, some persons may have reported their place of birth in terms of boundaries that existed at the time of their birth or emigration, or in accordance with their own national preference.

Persons not reporting place of birth were assigned the birthplace of another family member or were allocated the response of another person with similar characteristics. Persons allocated as foreign born were not assigned a specific country but were classified as "Born abroad, country not specified."

Nativity -- Information on place of birth and citizenship were used to classify the population into two major categories: native and foreign born. When information on place of birth was not reported, nativity was assigned on the basis of answers to citizenship, if reported, and other characteristics.

Native -- Includes persons born in the United States, Puerto Rico, or an outlying area of the United States. The small number of persons who were born in a foreign country but have at least one American parent also are included in this category.

The native population is classified in the following groups; persons born in the State in which they resided at the time of the census; persons born in a different State, by region; persons born in Puerto Rico or an outlying are of the U.S.; and persons born abroad with at least one American parent.

Foreign Born -- Includes persons not classified as "Native." Prior to the 1970 census, persons not reporting place of birth were generally classified as native.

The foreign born population is shown by selected area, country, or region of birth: the places of birth shown in data products were selected based on the number of respondents who reported that area or country or birth.

Comparability -- Data on the State of birth of the native population have been collected in each census beginning with that of 1850. Similar data were shown in tabulations for the 1980 census and other recent censuses. Nonresponse was allocated in a similar manner in 1980; however, prior to 1980, nonresponse to the place of birth question was not allocated. Prior to the 1970 census, persons not reporting place of birth were generally classified as native.

The questionnaire instruction to report mother's State of residence instead of the person's actual State of birth (if born in a hospital in a different State) was dropped in 1990. Evaluation studies of 1970 and 1980 census data demonstrated that this instruction was generally either ignored or misunderstood. Since the hospital and the mother's residence is in the same State for most births, this change may have a slight effect on State of birth data for States with large metropolitan areas that straddle State lines.

YEAR OF ENTRY

The data on year of entry were derived from answers to questionnaire item 10, which was asked of a sample of persons. The question, "When did this person come to the United States to stay?" was asked of persons who indicated in the question on citizenship that they were not born in the United States. (For more information, see the discussion under "Citizenship.")

The 1990 census questions, tabulations, and census data products about citizenship and year of entry include no reference to immigration. All persons who were born and resided outside the United States before becoming residents of the United States have a data of entry. Some of these persons are U.S. citizens by birth (e.g., persons born in Puerto Rico or born abroad of American parents). To avoid any possible confusion concerning the date of entry of persons who are U.S. citizens by birth, the term, "year of entry" is used in this report instead of the term "year of immigration."

Limitation of the Data -- The census questions on nativity, citizenship, and year of entry were not designed to measure degree of permanence of residence in the United States. The phrase, "to stay" was used to obtain the year in which the person became a resident of the United States. Although the respondent was directed to indicate the year he or she entered the country "to stay," it was difficult to ensure that respondents interpreted the phrase correctly.

Comparability -- A question on year of entry, (alternately called "year of immigration") was asked in each decennial census from 1890 to 1930, 1970, and 1980. In 1980, the question on year of entry included six arrival time intervals. The number of arrival intervals was expanded to ten in 1990. In 1980, the question on year of entry was asked only of the foreign born population. In 1990, all persons who responded to the long-form questionnaire and were not born in the United States were to complete the question on year of entry.
